

Mineral Insulated – Temperature Cables

Description

If your business requires the management of heat in its manufacturing process then temperature monitoring and control will probably be high on your agenda.

We provide a wide range of temperature related products and services alongside our core activity of design, supply different types of MI thermocouple/sensor cables and probes.

We are also a solution provider and supply a range of bespoke thermocouples, RTDs, harnesses and probes for use in complex high temperature situations.