

Temperature Sensor for Vapours & Gases

Description

Heavy duty special type strengthened probewith single or dual type PT100 temperature sensors or thermocouples are can be used for gas and steam pipeline industrial applications. Suiting for unique technologies and industrial processes, special versions are also available along with the standard models.